

BEAUTIFUL, LUSTROUS, HEAVY HAIR AND NO DANDRUFF OR ITCHY SCALP

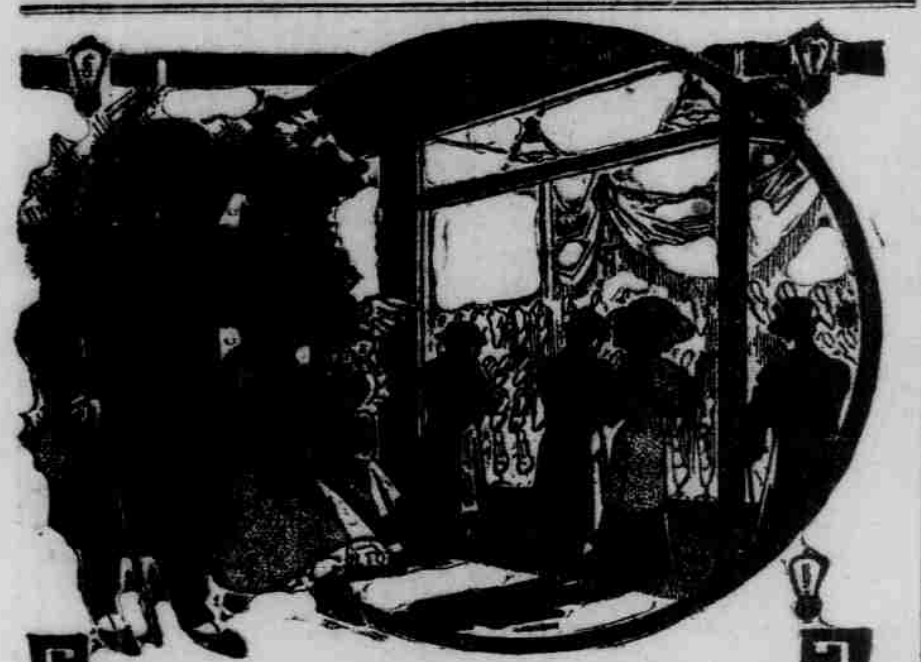

Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine and just try this—stops hair falling out at once

Thin, brittle, colorless, and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair. Ten minutes after applying all the dandruff will disappear, all itching will cease and there will be no more falling hair. Millions of men and women use Knowlton's Danderine and they never have dandruff, itchy scalp or falling hair—they know that it keeps the scalp clean and healthy and makes the hair grow heavy, long and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—growing all over the scalp.

BOOKER WASHINGTON LOSES CASE

His Alleged Assailant Acquitted, One of Three Judges Dissenting—Testimony That He Was Peeping Through a Keyhole and Addressed a Woman as "Sweetheart."

New York, Nov. 6.—Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, failed today to receive satisfaction at law for the beating which he received at the hands of Henry A. Ulrich, a white man, on Sunday evening, March 19 last. Ulrich was acquitted late today of the charge of assault which Dr. Washington made against him.

Peeping Through a Keyhole.
After the fight, which started in the vestibule of an apartment house where Ulrich lived, at 11-12 West Sixty-third street, Dr. Washington was laid up at the hospital for several days with his right ear torn, his scalp cut and his face badly bruised. Provocation, which the defense attempted to prove today, was based mainly on the testimony of Ulrich. He declared that he found Dr. Washington peeping into the keyhole of his apartment, and also the one opposite, and that Dr. Washington struck the first blow; and Mrs. Laura Alvarez, with whom Ulrich boarded, swore that when she passed Dr. Washington he said to her: "Hello, sweetheart."

Denial by Dr. Washington.
Dr. Washington's version of the affair related on the stand today was the same which he offered at the time of the altercation. He swore he was not peeping into any keyholes, that he was only searching the tenants' directory in an effort to find a family with which he understood a friend was stopping, and he denied positively that he spoke to Mrs. Alvarez or to any other woman.

Acquittal Not Unanimous.
The acquittal of Ulrich was not unanimous. Justice O'Keefe, who was one of the three judges who decided the case in three days of speech and sessions, dissenting from the opinion of Justices Moss and Zeller. After Ulrich left the court he was arrested again on the charge of being a fugitive from justice in New Jersey. An indictment has been found against him in that state charging desertion of his wife.

Washington Declines to Comment.
Dr. Washington was asked if he had any comment to make on the outcome of the case.

"No, not a word," he replied.

Testimony of Ulrich.
"I first saw Dr. Washington peeping through the keyhole of my door," Ulrich testified today. "He saw me and left and walked toward Eighth avenue. I saw him walking up and down the street, and after ten minutes he came back, walked by the Revettes' apartment window and stooped to look beneath the shade."

"I opened the vestibule door and burst in upon him and shouted: 'What are you doing here?' He struck me in the face and then we fought. He asked me to let it drop. Dr. Washington said: 'I know I have done wrong. Let me go.' While we were fighting he struck his head against a fire hydrant."

"Did you have any stick or other weapon with which you hit Dr. Washington?"

"No, sir. I used no stick."

Testimony of Mrs. Alvarez.

Mrs. Alvarez testified: "When I went out on the night of March 19 to take out my little dog I found Dr. Washington crouching down in front of Mr. Revette's apartment peeping through the keyhole. I came upon him so suddenly that he had no time to straighten up. I came over him. He got up, flustered, and hurried out."

Later she saw Dr. Washington near Broadway, she said, and "he followed me down to the house," went on Mrs. Alvarez. "I was frightened. I ran past him."

"What did Washington say to you?"

"He said 'Hello, sweetheart.'"

"What did you do then?"

"Saw Washington Strike Ulrich."

I ran into the house and told Mr. Ulrich. He went into the hall and I saw him talking to Washington. Mr. Ulrich asked him what he was doing and I saw Dr. Washington strike at him."

STONINGTON.

Handsome and Convenient Apartment House Remodeled by Dr. C. O. Maine—Schooner's Jibboom Torn Away in Collision—Saloons Close.

One of the largest and most noticeable real estate improvements made here in years is being done by Dr. Charles O. Maine. Dr. Maine purchased one of the oldest residences in the town, known as the Dr. Hyde property at the corner of Harmony and Water streets and has made the whole place over into beautiful, well appointed flats. The rooms are finely arranged and lighted by many windows, fitted with bookcases and fireplaces, etc. One large, three-cornered window affords a view of the whole length of Water street, north and south, and with fine

To Shrink a Fleshly, Flabby, Bloated Face

(From Happy Homes)

The woman whose face has a bloated appearance at times, particularly upon arising, as well as one whose face is permanently overgrown and flabby, should use the saxonite solution. This is made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxonite in 1-2 pint witch-hazel. Inexpensive ingredients which any druggist can supply. Use as a wash lotion. There is nothing better to reduce the face to a normal condition. The loose skin shrinks, bagginess and wrinkles are ironed out. Not only does the effect quickly show in one's improved appearance, but there is also a comfortable feeling of firmness and snugness.

This treatment is far superior to massage. The latter, as a matter of fact, can afford but temporary relief, and its continuance tends to break down the muscular tissue and aggravate the trouble.

Detective Hagan's Testimony.

Detective Hagan testified that he saw Ulrich running after Dr. Washington and that when he came up to them he found Dr. Washington on his hands and knees. "Dr. Washington was bleeding on the head," said Detective Hagan. "Ulrich said: 'This man is a thief.' I found him with his hand on the doorknob and his eye at the keyhole." On the way to the station house Ulrich remarked that it was a good thing he had come up for if he hadn't he would have knocked the negro's brains out. There was another man with us and he said: 'I think he was there after those two young girls.'"

Ulrich Said His Wife Was Afraid.
"Ulrich then said that he thought he might change the charge of attempted burglary to something else, but I told him I didn't think he had much of a case, anyway." The detective said that Ulrich told him his wife had met the colored man while taking a dog out for an airing and was afraid to go out again. It was then that Ulrich went out with a cane, according to Ulrich's remark to the detective.

Banker's Clerk Testifies.

James Crowe, a banker's clerk, corroborated the detective's testimony. He said that a Mrs. Alvarez, with whom Ulrich roomed, said to the officer: "It's a good thing you caught that thief. He has been hanging around this house all night."

"In the station house," said Patrolman Benjamin S. Tierney, who arrested Washington, "Ulrich charged Washington with attempted burglary and with insulting his wife."

On cross examination Mr. Moore asked: "Did Washington explain who he was on the way to the station house?"

"No," said Tierney.

"What was his condition as to sobriety?"

"It was normal."

Washington's Story.

Booker T. Washington then told his story. He said it was about a quarter past 3 when he was in Ulrich's home. The defendant ran into the hallway and assaulted me, he said. "He grabbed me by the throat and choked me and hit me with his fists. I tried to defend myself, but he was getting the best of me, and I opened the door and stepped into the street. There were two men on the street and Ulrich asked one of them for a stick he carried. He hit me a dozen times I should say with the stick. I said to him: 'Don't beat me this way. If I'm breaking the law call an officer and have me arrested, if I'm doing anything wrong.'"

"When I reached Central Park West I was so weak that I fell. Two men were beating me."

Was Looking at Doorplates.

"What were you doing there?" asked Justice Zeller.

"I was looking at the doorplates," said the educator.

"You went to that house two or three times," asked Mr. Moore on cross examination.

"I went first at about quarter to 9," the witness said. "I was looking for a friend."

"White or colored?" The district attorney objected but was overruled.

"They were white," replied Dr. Washington.

Dr. Washington said he was looking for D. C. Smith, auditor of his school, but the name he expected to find on the vestibule directory was "Ulrich," since he had been informed that Mr. Smith was staying with a family of that name.

Did Not Talk to Young Ladies.
"When you were in the vestibule did two young ladies pass you?"

"I am not sure."

"Did you talk to any ladies in the vestibule?"

"No, sir."

The witness said that in his private talk with the lieutenant at the police station he had said that he was a business man who had no time to spend in open court and that the lieutenant had advised him to make a complaint against Ulrich. Here the prosecution rested.

English Schooner Did Damage.

Late last week, a three-masted schooner laden with lumber for western ports was en route for Stonington, coming against the wind. A large four-master schooner, that was coming with the wind without lights ran into the former's bow and tore away her jibboom; this occurred near Point Judith. The disabled ship drifted along and word by wireless was sent to Newport from Point Judith and a revenue cutter picked her up. The ports all along the coast were notified to look out for a vessel answering the description. On Saturday, while the owner of the disabled vessel was in Boston he spotted the four-master which proved to be an English vessel. The 3-masted vessel was towed into the harbor and a diver from the T. A. A. company went down and patched up the hole which was under the water line. She was brought into the harbor and beached and the lumber is being taken from her daily. Owls to her being laden with lumber keeps her from sinking.

HUGE WAVE SWEEPS

THREE INTO THE SEA
Fruitless Effort to Rescue Chief Officer and Two Men of Momus.

New York, Nov. 6.—The chief officer and two men of the Morgan line steamer Momus were swept from the deck of the vessel by a tremendous wave on the voyage from New Orleans which was completed here today, and drowned. The victims are A. T. Boesch, chief officer; J. P. Serge, boatswain; R. Nordberg, seaman. The tragedy occurred last Friday afternoon off the coast of Florida.

A crew of six in charge of Second Officer Murrin was picked for rescue work and while the Momus rolled and pitched in wide arcs, the boat was lowered and until darkness set in the little boat risked the mercy of the
